NEW BUSINESS

A new report was given on water use in Louisiana during the year of 2000. The report outlines the water usage in the state of Louisiana. The report was a joint effort of the Department of Transportation and Development and the U.S. Geological Survey. The largest user of ground water was rice irrigation. According to the report they used 680 million gallons per day. The general public uses 350 million gallons of ground water per day. All other industries other than power industry, rice and farm industry used 280 million gallons per day. Agriculture, which included crawfish and catfish, used 130 million gallons per day. All other farming used 109 million gallons per day. In the year 2000 power generation used 28 million gallons per day.
